DST Technology

Diamonds are the hardest substance known to man, and DIAMOND™ Seal Technology takes full advantage of this property. Delta's exclusive DIAMOND Seal Technology uses a valve with a tough diamond coating to bring you a faucet built to last up to 5 million uses – plus it keeps water inside the faucet out of contact with potential metal contaminants.

With its durable components and simple construction, a DIAMOND Seal Technology faucet lasts 10 times longer than the industry standard (ASME 112.18.1, 500,000 cycles). One-piece InnoFlex® waterways with PEX-C tubing make DIAMOND Seal Technology faucets simple to install.

The handle limit stop on Delta's DIAMOND™ Valve cartridge makes it easy to limit the range of the handle motion for hot water from full flow to a 50/50 mix. This feature is the smart choice to protect sensitive skin from scalding.

 Only Delta faucets are equipped with Touch-Clean® soft, rubber nubbins that allow you to easily wipe away calcium and lime build-up with the touch of a finger.

 MagnaTite® docking keeps the kitchen pull-down spray wand firmly in place with a powerful integrated magnet, so it stays docked when not in use. The pull-down spray wand comes free with a gentle tug and gives you total flexibility. The hose extends and retracts without friction points, fed by gravity. The toggle button on most wands featuring MagnaTite allows you to switch between aerated spray and stream modes.

WaterSense, a new voluntary public-private partnership program sponsored by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency selects water efficient products that are independently tested and certified.

Generally, WaterSense labeled products will be about 20 percent more water efficient than their less efficient counterparts in the same category.

Within the United States, the Company operates 4 manufacturing plants and makes its corporate headquarters in Lincolnwood, IL. The plants feature highly automated lines and the latest technology in recycling. Distributing worldwide, the Company's product lines include: ceramic disc cartridge single and two-handle faucets and valves marketed as Gerber Hardwater® products as well as traditional compression stem and washerless faucets and valves.

This complete faucet product offering is for residential and commercial applications.

Gerber's people-oriented attitude carries over in the products it designs for the changing needs of today's homeowner. The Company's focus is to manufacture high quality plumbing products at affordable prices. The high performance and tasteful design of its products reflect the Company's emphasis on current technology and style.

A leader in new product development, the Company has recently introduced several new faucet lines.

To answer consumers' concerns about the damaging, corrosive effects of water, the Company offers a complete line of Gerber Hardwater® kitchen faucets, lavatory faucets and tub/shower valves. These products are specifically designed to fight water's corrosive properties which can cause damage to internal working parts.

The new single and two handle designs are based on Gerber's extensive research and field testing. The result is a more durable, longer lasting faucet and tub/shower valve. At the heart of the new design is the special Ceramaflow™ ceramic disc cartridge which protects against the damaging, corrosive effects of water. Gerber Hardwater® faucets and tub/shower valves are backed with a lifetime warranty against leaks and drips.

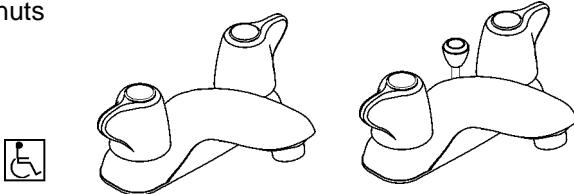

To meet the greater performance and convenience requirements of today's consumer, the Gerber Hardwater® single-handle faucets and anti-scald pressure-balance tub/shower valves are supplied with a temperature limit stop. The temperature limit stop maintains water temperature within 1° - 3°F, even when there is a sudden drop of water pressure.

Gerber's engineering staff works closely with the American Society of Plumbing Engineers (ASPE) in developing performance tests for the new standards developed by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI). A majority of Gerber products meet Canadian Standards Association requirements and are "CSA Certified."

Timeless designs. Styles unlike anything else. Faucets and fixtures that are livable and enduring. These are just some of the reasons that Moen Incorporated is the number one brand of faucet in North America. But, Moen does more than make faucets. It's also a major supplier of stylish kitchen sinks and innovative bath accessories.

Moen is part of Fortune Brands' Home and Hardware group - a leading consumer brands company that includes leading cabinetry, door and lock manufacturers.

A SERIES OF FIRSTS

Besides introducing the world to the single-handle faucet, Moen is known throughout the industry for a series of firsts that include: Washerless cartridge system that replaces seals and washers to ease faucet maintenance Swing'n'Spray® aerator that changes the water flow from a stream to a forceful spray Riser® family of faucets that can lift 10-inches above the sink Pressure-balanced shower valves that reduce the risk of shower shock Lifetime warranties Toll-free consumer help lines for installation or replacement questions

TECHNOLOGY AND INNOVATION

With an emphasis on new technology, Moen has introduced innovative products such as: ChoiceFlo™ the first filtering faucet to feature dual waterways in the spout - with two independent valves - to allow for both filtered and non-filtered water. Revolution® showerhead that spins, twists and twirls the water for a one-of-a-kind showering experience Aberdeen™ pulldown faucet with a patented pause button that stops the flow of water with a touch of a button Immersion™ rainshower technology provides a powerful, rain-drenching shower experience unlike typical rainshowers that have a "drooping" showering pattern similar to the flow from a watering can LifeShine® finish technology that allows designer finishes like brushed nickel to have the durability of chrome M-PACT® common valve system that allows consumers to upgrade their faucets without replacing existing plumbing

STYLISH LUXURY

In 2004, Moen launched ShowHouse® by Moen®, a new line of luxury faucets and accessories for the kitchen and bath, featuring cutting-edge affordable styles for fashion-conscious homeowners. For the kitchen and bath, ShowHouse offers styles that range from sleek and modern to refined and traditional. Products include kitchen, preparatory and bath faucets, luxurious shower, spa and tub faucet options and a complete line of coordinating bath accessories. All are available in beautiful designer finishes. The line also features exclusive powder room collections with uniquely designed faucets and accessories for a coordinated look in the one room your guests are certain to use.

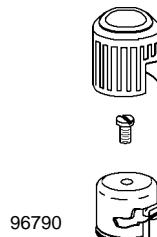

A PROUD PAST

Moen, originally part of Ravenna Metal Products of Seattle, Washington, became part of Stanadyne, Inc., in 1956 as the Company's only consumer brand. Stanadyne was acquired in 1988 by Forstmann-Little & Company. In 1989, Moen was given the status of an independent company and renamed Moen Incorporated before being purchased by MasterBrand Industries, Inc., an operating company of American Brands, in 1990. American Brands became Fortune Brands in 1997, and Moen is now part of the Fortune Brands Home and Hardware group.

In the time that Moen has been part of the Fortune Brands family, it has introduced a wide range of consumer-preferred, stylish products - positioning Moen as the number one plumbing brand, both in market share and in the minds of consumers. With Moen, you'll always find the perfect balance between styles you'll love and innovation you can live with. Buy it for looks. Buy it for life®.

Central Brass Mfg Co

Not many companies can say they've been in business for over a century. But not many companies are like Central Brass. The brass faucets and fixture fittings we started making in 1895 are still made the same way today, with a combination of quality craftsmanship, rugged components and naturally, bodies cast of solid brass.

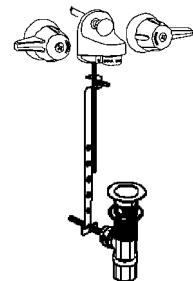

Today, Central Brass "trouble free" faucets and fixture fittings are the preferred choice among professional plumbing contractors for their long lasting design, durability and proven dependability.

Central Brass faucets feature solid cast brass bodies, ceramic or compression stems, easy to clean triple chrome finish and easy to get replacement parts. And, faucets for use in drinking water systems meet rigid standards for safety.

Plumbers install Central Brass because they know it's there to stay. They stake their reputation on it. They know it will keep on working and reduce dreaded call backs. Dependability and durability are the central ideas behind Central Brass. Because caring about how well a faucet functions is central to our way of thinking. Which means we'll probably be around for another 100 years.

The inventor of the Flushometer and founder of Sloan Valve Company was born in Liberty, Missouri. After serving as an apprentice pipe fitter, he traveled to Chicago and became a foreman, a superintendent, and finally, an independent contractor. Through intense self-education, Mr. Sloan developed a superior knowledge of electrical circuitry and hydraulics, which led to a total of 64 inventions during his long, productive life. Among these were a relay booster for telegraph lines and a fire-safety curtain for theaters. The later invention was inspired by the Iroquois Theater fire in Chicago, which claimed hundreds of lives. The fire started backstage and spread rapidly into the auditorium. Mr. Sloan's conception was a fireproof curtain with heat fusible linkage, which would drop instantly and automatically in the event of a fire; it was simple, practical and, like most good inventions, immediately obvious once somebody thinks of it.

Mr. Sloan then developed the idea for the Royal Flushometer with its revolutionary design and ingenious simplicity. The Royal is a diaphragm-type valve and was the original product of Sloan Valve Company when it started in business in 1906. It is still the largest selling Flushometer in the Sloan line (literally millions are in use throughout the world). While there have been many refinements and improvements in component parts over the years, the working principle and fundamental hydraulic design have not changed. No figure in our industry ever faced a greater sales challenge than Mr. Sloan in launching his new company, and none ever persevered more courageously in the face of resistance and discouragement. The benefits of using Flushometers instead of toilet tanks in commercial structures were considerable and undeniable: a saving of water, much less maintenance; a relative freedom from breakage and vandalism, and virtually no recycling time between flushes. These benefits would pay every day for the life of the building. But to get them, you had to accept a somewhat higher initial cost because the pipe size of the branch line supplying the fixture had to be larger than that required for a toilet tank.

But the real problem Mr. Sloan had to overcome was the normal human resistance to change. Plumbers were afraid to install Flushometers because they knew nothing about them. Architects would not specify them for the same reason. Owners did not want to be the guinea pigs. Lenders were leery of unproven products. Some fixture manufacturers even refused to furnish their fixtures when Sloan Flushometers were to be installed.

The first year he sold one Flushometer - that's right, one! The next year he doubled his business and sold two. In the third year a phenomenal advance was made; he sold 150 Flushometers and from then on sales shot upward. Whenever a building engineer would permit, Mr. Sloan would install Royal Flushometer for demonstration, and let him see the savings and benefits for himself. The flush valve proved so incomparably better that the trade began to relax its opposition.

Mr. Sloan also developed piston-type Flushometers. Over the years, the original Royal was joined by the Star, the Crown, the Gem and the Naval; plus automatic urinal flushing systems and the Act-O-Matic showerhead. He made his product names bywords in the industry through powerful, consistent advertising in plumbing, architectural, and institutional publications, using cover positions whenever available.

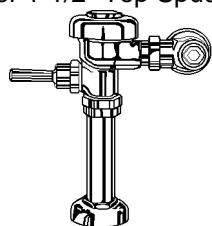

Mr. Sloan died just short of his 93rd year. The company he founded and built is today the world leader in Flushometers. Its foundry and plants are among the most modern and efficient in the plumbing industry.

In 1913, A.C. Brown invented a cartridge that laid the cornerstone of The Chicago Faucet Company. This major breakthrough in faucet design was the patented Quaturn cartridge. The replaceable, completely self-contained cartridge was revolutionary in its ability to turn water flow off from full flow with one-quarter turn of the handle. Also unique was the way the cartridge closed with the flow of the water rather than against it, reducing washer wear and virtually eliminating drips. It was noteworthy that the cartridge was replaceable and interchangeable with other Chicago Faucets products. The Quaturn cartridge became the standard of reliability, durability, and value as a result of Chicago Faucets commitment to standardization and renewability of parts. The Quaturn cartridge has been updated over the years to incorporate new technology and materials, but is still interchangeable with any Quaturn manufactured since 1913.
